

Immediate Past President's message

Feb 24, 2022

Dear all APSN Members and Supporters,

At the executive committee meeting today, I stepped down from President, and Sydney Tang took over as new President of the APSN. I would like to express my sincere gratitude to all the executive councils, councils, and members of the APSN for the continuous support during my presidency. The APSN has been very active even during the tough situation of COVID-19, and it is your contribution that made this possible.

Those who step down from the executive council of the APSN include Philip Li, David Harris, and Vivek Jha, who served as past President of APSN and/or ISN. Their wisdom and guidance has been indispensable for me and the APSN, and I hope they will continue to guide us under the new leadership.

Philip Li

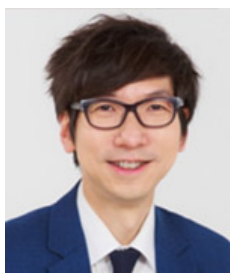

David Harris

Vivek Jha

Now Sydney Tang is leading the APSN as new President with his wisdom and insights, with Xueqing Yu as new President-Elect.

Sydney Tang

Xueqing Yu

I am sure that the APSN will expand its activities even more under the new leadership.

It has been true pleasure to work with you, and I am very happy that I am finishing my presidency during the wonderful APCN/WCN 2022 led by our great colleagues, Halim Abdul Gafor, Bak Leong Goh, and Sunita Bavanandan,

Halim Abdul Gafor

Bak Leong Goh

Sunita Bavanandan

Our journal to conquer kidney disease still continues.

Once again my sincere thanks to all of you. I wish I can contribute to the APSN activities as Immediate-Past President of the APSN as well as President-Elect of the ISN. We will move forward together.

Best wishes,

Masaomi Nangaku
Immediate Past President,
Asian Pacific Society of Nephrology

