

President's message

Mar 19, 2021

Dear all APSN Members and Supporters,

We have some important changes of our leaderships. Kriengsak Vareesangthip is stepping down from the executive council of the APSN after his long contribution to our society, and Surasak Kantachuvesiri, President of the Nephrology Society of Thailand, is taking over as a new member of the executive council of the APSN. We truly thank Kriengsak Vareesangthip for his huge contribution to our society and look forward to work with Surasak Kantachuvesiri to achieve our mission.

This August the Nephrology Society of Thailand is co-hosting the Asian Pacific Congress of Nephrology, and Kriengsak Vareesangthip remains Head of the local organizing committee of the congress.

We also have changes of our members at the CME committee of the APSN. After their long contributions to the APSN, Basu Gopal and Matthew Jose stepped down. Katherine Barraclough is also stepping down from her role as Deputy Chair of the committee. The great achievements by our CME committee could not have been possible without their enormous contributions. We really thank them and miss them.

However, we are lucky as Katherine Barraclough is staying on board as a member of the CME committee. Further, we have new members of the CME committee, Lily Mushahar. Last but not least, Muh Geot Wong, who has been a member of the CME committee, is taking Katherine Barraclough over as new Deputy Chair. We will welcome Lily Mushahar and look forward to having more CME activities under the new leaderships by Xueqing Yu and Muh Geot Wong.

Especially because this is the COVID-19 era, it is very important to keep international communications intact and exchange information among different countries. The APSN will move on to cater for the needs of the Nephrology community throughout the region, and we treasure your views on how we should further advance nephrology in the Asia Pacific region. If you have any suggestions, please feel free to contact me, any of the Executive and Council or through the Secretariat enquiries@apsneph.org.

Best wishes,

Masaomi Nangaku
President,

Asian Pacific Society of Nephrology
